JOINT STATEMENT REGARDING SETTLEMENT

JLC-Tech, LLC and North America Lighting, LLC announce that they have settled a patent infringement lawsuit, JLC-Tech LLC v. North America Lighting, LLC, Case No. 1:20-cv-01203-SAG, that JLC-Tech filed in federal district court in Maryland in 2020. The lawsuit related to the sale of certain LED lighting products that NAL imported into the United States from Shenzhen OKT Lighting Co., Ltd. and its affiliates. The final judgement per the settlement agreement, for this lawsuit, was entered in favor of JLC-Tech LLC and against North America Lighting LLC.

JLC-Tech's CFO, Mia Antonia states, "JLC is a pioneer in architectural integrated LED lighting solutions, including our flagship T-BAR LED® product line. We protect our innovations with over 40 U.S. and International patents and patent applications. We are pleased to have resolved this matter with NAL, and look forward to continuing to provide our innovative lighting products to the Architectural market."

North America Lighting's President, Michael Claypool, states "We are pleased to have resolved this matter on mutually agreeable terms. NAL respects the intellectual property rights of others, and the settlement of this matter involving products supplied to us by a third-party is consistent with our company's core values."
